

I have been happy with my internet provider, berkshire.net and am strongly opposed to any actions you might take that would effectively limit my choices to one (my phone service provider). Answering the dictates of the special interests that you serve, like large corporations, is in direct contradiction to your mandate to serve the public.